

E-Learning Computer Based Training:

Essentials of Health & Safety Law for School Governors, Trustees, Bursars and Heads – What you need to know to protect the school and keep you out of jail

Regulatory compliance in health & safety is an area of increasing concern for all organisations and their leadership teams. This E-learning computer based training is relevant for school governors, trustees, bursars and heads, as well as senior staff reporting to them for whom similar duties apply.

Although health & safety is generally appreciated as being important at schools, it is regarded by some leaders as being something for someone else to worry about. Yet the duties cross most of the roles in a school leadership team; and the new increased fines and lower threshold for imprisonment mean it has never been more important to understand how far you need to go to protect the school and stay out of jail.

Contents:

- Essentials of health & safety law
- Areas of particular concern for school governors, trustees, bursars and heads
- Practical tips (including: balancing cost against safety; contractors and outsourcing; driving; stress at work; fire safety and school trips)
- The training is interspersed with self-test questions to keep you on track and ends with a test

The training is completed within 60 minutes at your desk and at a time that suits you. As a useful demonstration of compliance with the law, your school or trust can access a dashboard to monitor who has taken the training and passed the test.

Tailored to your needs:

The training has been written by Dr Simon Joyston-Bechal, solicitor and director at Turnstone Law, which is a boutique law firm specialising in health & safety criminal defence. Simon has acted for many organisations and leaders facing criminal prosecution for health & safety incidents. He has developed legal tools to reduce exposure to prosecution and this computer based training is a condensed version of the highly regarded face-to-face training that he has provided to school governors, trustees, bursars and heads.
